

Having access to your Genetic Profile

- Hand out an A4 sheet of paper per pupil.
- Ask them to fold the paper into two.
- On one side, draw images expressing how you would feel about your doctor having your genetic profile.
- On the other side, draw images expressing how you would feel being the doctor who has the genetic profile of your patients.
- You can distribute different roles throughout the group such as:
 - Government
 - Research scientist
 - Police Officer
 - Insurance company
 - Parents
 These can be the same roles as they were given during their workshop with Sensation, or you can distribute different roles out accordingly.
- Now display these images to allow the pupils to see each other's work. This may also act as a stimulus for further discussion.
